Montclair, NJ. October 19, 2006 -- The Montclair Arts Council and the Montclair Economic Development Corporation invite you to the Opening Night of the MONTCLAIR EMERGING FILMMAKERS FESTIVAL. Be a part of the kick-off of this fascinating festival by coming to the reception and seeing a sneak preview of a major comedy.

7 PM – Reception - Here's your chance to meet and greet your fellow film buffs while you taste a variety of bubbly from Amanti Vino and cognacs from JTE Spirits along with delicious appetizers from Joe Bartoni's new Italian Market.

8:30 PM - Don't Miss the Sneak Preview of this Hilarious Comedy!

THE TV SET, a new major motion picture directed by Jake Kasdan, starring David Duchovny, Sigourney Weaver, Ioan Gruffudd, Justine Bateman, and Judy Greer. Distributed by THINKFilm. Scheduled for release in Spring, 2007.

A hair-raising comedy of art and compromise, THE TV SET follows an idealistic writer (Duchovny) as he tries to navigate his TV pilot down the mine-laden path from script through production to the madness of prime-time scheduling – all while trying to stay true to his vision. Duchovny has to juggle the agendas of a headstrong network president (Weaver), volatile young stars, a pregnant wife, and an overly optimistic personal manager.

Doors open at 7 PM at the Montclair Art Museum. $25 per person.

Get your Complete Event Pass, which includes the Friday night opening and all Saturday screenings and panels, for $35 from the Montclair Arts Council. For complete information, please see the website www.montclairfilm.com.
